

GET SQUARE WITH THE KAISER

RUSSIA AND ENGLAND TO SHARE SUZERAINTY OF PERSIA.

German Paper Prints Text of Alleged Tripartite Treaty—Qualified British Denial—Coming Royal Conference—Turko-Greek War Preparations.

Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN.

LONDON, June 5.—A political sensation of the first magnitude was created throughout Europe to-day by the publication in the semi-official Vossische Zeitung of Berlin of the circumstantial announcement that Great Britain and Russia have assumed joint suzerainty over Persia. The terms of the treaty which the paper declares has been adopted are such as completely to deprive the Shah's kingdom of its independence and to reduce the country almost to the vassalage of Egypt.

The Vossische Zeitung gives the terms of the treaty, which, it says, has been signed not only by Great Britain and Russia but by Persia, as follows:

First—The Shah is to restore the constitution, without alteration, and proclaim a general amnesty.

Second—All the financial affairs of Persia shall be controlled by Great Britain and Russia.

Third—All ministerial nominations shall be subject to the approval of Great Britain and Russia.

Fourth—No new concession shall be granted without the knowledge of Great Britain and Russia.

Fifth—Persia shall contract no loan without the consent of Great Britain and Russia.

Sixth—Great Britain and Russia undertake to protect the Shah from all acts of violence on the part of the Persian people.

Seventh—They guarantee the safety of life and property and of the throne to the Shah.

Eighth—They guarantee a large loan to Persia.

This startling announcement, considering its source and the intrinsic evidence of its official inspiration, received full credence until a few hours later, when the British Foreign Office issued a denial of its authenticity. The statement was broadly to the effect that there was no foundation for the statements of the Vossische Zeitung. But it was admitted that some weeks ago Great Britain and Russia made joint representations to the Shah respecting the advisability of a restoration of the constitution.

This denial can hardly be accepted as disproving the matter. The Persian situation has reached such a critical stage that both Great Britain and Russia decided recently that it was imperative to deal with it by radical measures. The present Shah is utterly incapable either of governing himself or of pursuing any rational policy for the restoration of law and order in his disrupted kingdom. Sharp foreign intervention alone will avert the worst horrors of internecine strife. Russia and Great Britain are in full agreement on this point, and the only question is how far they are prepared to go in the direction of assuming control of the internal affairs of the country.

If the Vossische Zeitung is right they intend going very far indeed. The seizure of Persia in fact would constitute a high-handed act of aggression against a sovereign state. Such an act would be a settlement of the Balkan dispute. This aspect of the situation fully explains the coming meeting of the Kaiser and the Czar. The German press has been busy this week exploiting this meeting as a political event of momentous importance.

The semi-official organs assert with significant insistence that the two sovereigns will meet on the initiative of the Czar. The truth is the exact reverse.

It is a safe assumption that the Kaiser will seize the occasion to use all his powers of persuasion in an endeavor to remove the effects of the recent assault upon Russian amour propre. He will strive to reach a friendly understanding with the Czar upon the whole Near Eastern question. He will go further, according to the frank utterance of the semi-official German press during the last few days, and will try his best to drive a wedge, if there is cleavage, in some form into the Anglo-Russian entente.

Germany, indeed, in departing from her traditional policy of friendly relations with great Eastern neighbor is already reaping fruits little to her liking. Her interests in Persia are great, especially in connection with her Bagdad railway scheme, and she sees them doomed to disappear if the version of the treaty published to-day has any basis in fact.

The Kaiser Wilhelm's influence with the Czar Nicholas has always been strong, especially when he exerted it in personal interviews. It is satisfactory to know that each monarch will be accompanied by his chief of government and foreign secretary.

Another point of importance is that the Czar at an early date will make personal visits to President Fallières and King Edward. These three meetings of the heads of the greatest European nations are likely to have a far-reaching effect upon the immediate political history of the Old World.

War between Turkey and Greece over Crete is quite a topic of the day in Constantinople. The Turkish Government is making serious preparations for such an eventuality and the idea is certainly popular among the Young Turks. They believe that such a contest would unite all Mussulmans even more effectively than the new constitution.

In Greece there is much bellicose talk, as there was on the eve of the Greco-Turkish campaign twelve years ago. There is no reason to suppose that Greece would make any better show in the field to-day than she did then. Moreover there is less reason to believe that the present situation will develop into actual hostilities. None of the great Powers is anxious to see that flame repeated and it is well within their power to hold Greece under entire restraint.

ROSEBERRY SEES WAR.

Calls on the Colonies to Help England—Speech at Journalists' Dinner.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

LONDON, June 5.—The inaugural banquet of the Imperial Press Congress was held at the White City to-night, the hosts being about 600 English journalists.

The feature of the occasion was one of the greatest speeches of his career delivered by Lord Rosebery. In grace of diction, eloquence and grave impressiveness no recent utterance by any public man has surpassed it.

Lord Rosebery was particularly serious in his reference to the European situation, pointing out that whereas all the talk is of peace all the action is in preparation for war. He said he regarded the outlook as ominous, almost appalling. He had never seen the condition of things in Europe so remarkable and so menacing as at this moment.

There were features of this general preparation for war, he declared, which must cause special anxiety to the friends of the British Empire. One was forced to wonder what it was going to stop, whether it would merely bring Europe back into a state of barbarism or whether it would cause a catastrophe in which the workings of the world would say.

"We will have no more of this madness and this folly which is grinding us to powder," This elicited great cheers. Continuing Lord Rosebery said:

"We can and we will build Dreadnoughts as long as we have a shilling to spend or a man to put into them, but I am not sure that even that will be enough, and it is your duty to take back to your dominions across the seas this message and this impression, that some personal duty and responsibility for the national defence rests upon every man in the empire."

"Tell your peoples the deplorable conditions in which Europe is rattling into barbarism and the pressure that is put upon this little England to defend itself, its liberties and yours. For her salvation she must look to herself, and that falling she must look to you."

NO DEAL WITH ENGLAND.

German Navy League Opposes Understanding to Limit Fleets.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

BERLIN, June 5.—The annual meeting of the Navy League was concluded to-day at Kiel. Prince Henry of Prussia congratulated the league on the reestablishment of harmony in its management.

The chief business of the day was in relation to a speech by Admiral Weber, advising strongly against any understanding with England, which, he said, would be to possess only a fleet large enough to control all foreign trade. Such an understanding would lead to war.

A resolution in accordance with Admiral Weber's views was carried by a large majority.

The next meeting of the league will be held at Berlin.

SUICIDE OF HENRY A. HEIDT.

Had Been in a Sanatorium and Doctor Had Advised His Return.

Henry A. Heidt, secretary and treasurer of the cooperative firm of C. Heidt & Son, committed suicide in the concern's office at 42 Fairmount avenue, Jersey City, yesterday afternoon by shooting himself twice in the mouth with a revolver. He was mentally deranged.

Mr. Heidt suffered a breakdown several months ago and in January last was sent to the Idle Ears Sanatorium at Newfoundland, N. J. He was subsequently transferred to the Fair Oak Sanatorium at Summit, from which institution he was discharged last Saturday. His general health had improved, but Dr. John D. McGill of Jersey City, his family physician, advised that he be returned to the sanatorium for further rest and treatment. Mr. Heidt begged to be allowed to remain at home and his wishes were humored.

After riding to the cooperative plant in his automobile yesterday afternoon Mr. Heidt shot himself while alone in his office. His son Charles, who was standing outside, heard the report and ran in. The young man found his father dead in a chair.

Mr. Heidt was 39 years old and lived at the corner of Duncan avenue and the Hudson boulevard in one of the finest residences in the Bergen section. He is survived by his wife, one son and two daughters.

Mr. Heidt had no business troubles.

SAYS MOTHER EDDY IS DEAD

OR MINDLESS-PLAZA HOTEL SCIENTISTS' CIRCULAR.

Mrs. Della Gilbert Says She Has "Studied the Fraud" at Clearing House, and That the Church Needs a Living Head, Not a Fictitious Manipulated by Schemers.

Mrs. Della M. Gilbert, who sought to start a Christian Science Church at the Plaza Hotel but who was called off by the central organization at Boston, sends to the newspapers the following circular addressed by her "to all Christian Scientists":

"The Christian Science Church is without a spiritual leader in the flesh. 'Those in control of the Mother Church in Boston and of that house of mystery in Brookline—the falsely avowed home of a living and thriving Mary Baker G. Eddy—cannot successfully refute this assertion. 'Mrs. Eddy is either dead or a helpless, mindless puppet in the hands of connoisseurs men."

"This truth has been revealed to me and in humble obedience to the will of God I now openly declare the facts. In this message I appeal to all honest Christian Scientists to cooperate with me for a purification of our Church. I am not writing rashly or acting hastily. Within the last three weeks I have been within the so-called home of Mrs. Eddy and have studied at close range the fraud, the trickery and the revolting mystery by which the Boston organization seeks to perpetuate the pernicious fiction of an unseen and unseeable leader."

"This profane mockery will continue indefinitely unless honest Christian Scientists, who worship God and not the fetish of a poor old woman's name, combine to expose and exterminate the fraud. The very life of Christian Science is involved, and it is in the name of Christian Science—the faith which alone can lift humanity out of the slough of error—that I call upon you to act."

"As a preliminary step I ask you to confer with me without delay either in person or by letter. To each of you I will fully reveal every fact in my possession bearing upon conditions which surround the fiction of leadership maintained at Boston and Brookline."

"I will tell you just why there is no Christian Science Church at the Plaza Hotel in this city, although its organization has been virtually perfected."

"I will lay before you the documentary evidence proving that this church was throttled and killed by the machine at Boston, acting in the name of Mrs. Eddy."

"I will give you every detail of my recent investigations in Boston and Brookline, of my conference with the directors of the Mother Church, of my dealings with a man known as Mrs. Eddy's private secretary and of the pressure which has been brought upon me to keep silence. I will tell you also of an appeal made to me in the parlor of a leading Boston hotel by the chief executive of the Mother Church, who went like a woman when I refused to pledge myself to silence. There were witnesses to this interview and every word is carefully preserved. I told that agent of the frightened tricksters in control at Boston that to see and talk with the hidden leader was all that I asked. It was then that he wept. I had asked the impossible thing."

"The time has come when Christian Science must purge itself of dishonesty. Mary Baker G. Eddy lives now in history only. The fetch of her name is all that remains."

"That name, honored by all of us, has become the breasting of falacy and fraud. I say this in deepest loyalty to the cause of Christian Science and in truest devotion to the memory of the woman through whom God revealed the truth and gave to the world the science of healing."

"But the hour is at hand for a reorganization of the faith on lines of honesty, unity and purity. There must be a living spiritual head, not a fetish manipulated by schemers working solely for financial results. Earnestly pleading for your cooperation in the important duty which now confronts every honest Christian Scientist, I am faithfully yours."

"DELLA M. GILBERT."

NEW YORK, June 5.

A short time before Easter the announcement was made in the papers that Mrs. Della Gilbert, who had been a reader in one of the Brooklyn Christian Science societies, was going to hold a series of Sunday afternoon meetings in the grand ballroom of the Plaza Hotel. Arrangements had been made with the hotel authorities for a year's time and all sorts of reports of the character of the meetings were circulated. It was said that there was to be music from an orchestra and that other features would be added to make the gatherings attractive.

From the fact that the Plaza was chosen as a place of meeting, and with the rumors of the character of them, it was assumed that this enterprise was to make an appeal to the well-to-do persons who lived in the neighborhood. This Mrs. Gilbert denied at the first opportunity which came on Easter Sunday when the first and last meeting occurred.

The ballroom was crowded by well-groomed men and elaborately dressed women at the advertised hour of meeting, 3 o'clock. The platform at one end of the room was fitted with reading desks and Mrs. Gilbert appeared in a trailing gown of white.

She spoke for a very few minutes, saying that the purpose of the enterprise was to make an appeal to the well-to-do persons who lived in the neighborhood. This Mrs. Gilbert denied at the first opportunity which came on Easter Sunday when the first and last meeting occurred.

It had simply been an idea which she and a few friends had worked out to supply the need for another Christian Science Church. When they had proved themselves worthy and had demonstrated the fact that the church could be made a success then the consent of the Mother Church would be asked. She told the audience to come back a week later.

But before the next Sunday afternoon arrived Mrs. Gilbert had caused it to be announced in the papers that the meeting would not take place that day either.

A FISH SAVES S. S. CONCHO.

Plugs a Hole in the Bottom of the Vessel and Stops a Bad Leak.

GALVESTON, Tex., June 5.—Capt. Young and crew and about sixty-five passengers on the steamship Concho of the Mallory Line, which reached here late last night, attribute their escape from a watery grave to a large fish which in some manner was sucked into a bad leak in the vessel's bottom and plugged the hole which was filling the vessel with water.

The vessel is believed to have struck a submerged derelict which cut a hole about 10 inches in circumference in her bottom. All Thursday night the pumps were kept going, but Friday morning the water in the hold was about 5 feet deep and increasing.

A wireless message from Capt. Young to Agent Denison at Galveston told the story, and arrangements were made to send another ship to the rescue, when an aerogram from the Concho said the pumps were rapidly gaining and the vessel would be able to make port. The leak appeared to solve the problem. When the vessel reached port its hold contained four feet of water and the cargo of cement and nails and hardware suffered great damage.

The passengers suffered a terrible fright, but Capt. Young never told them of the real danger. It was not until this morning that the true condition was learned, when divers found the big fish wedged tight in the hole so effectively as to prevent the inflow of water which defied the pumps when the Concho was 100 miles from land.

SONS OUST ALDEN FREEMAN.

Demand His Resignation Because of the Emma Goldman Affair.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., June 5.—A request for his resignation from Orange chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, was sent to Alden Freeman to-day, which he ought to have received this morning. He said to a reporter at 10 o'clock that he had not received the communication conveying the request from the secretary, Philip Osborne, and this afternoon he was not at home and was not expected home to-night.

Mr. Freeman, who is the son of an official of the Standard Oil Company, stirred up the people of East Orange two weeks ago by bringing Emma Goldman here to the luncheon of the Mayflower descendants, but the reason for the request on the part of the Sons of the American Revolution is his expressed determination to bring the anarchist woman to this city next Tuesday to deliver a lecture on the modern drama.

It was with a great deal of compunction that the local chapter approached the question, realizing that Freeman's father is a man for whom every member holds the greatest respect. By way of apology the resolution directing the secretary to ask for his resignation concluded with the remark that the members regard Joel Francis Freeman, the father, with the deepest esteem, and regret exceedingly the necessity for calling upon his son to resign.

"In view of the fact," says the resolution, "that Alden Freeman has actively associated with certain persons who stand for principles inimical to the aims for which this society stands we feel obliged to ask for his resignation."

"This society stands for the fostering of true Americanism and the association of our fellow members is contrary thereto. At the same time we take occasion to express our deepest regard for Mr. Joel Francis Freeman, who has ever been one of our most worthy members."

BANKER KNAPP ARRESTED.

Accused of Receiving Deposits, Knowing His Bank to Be Insolvent.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 5.—Charles P. Knapp, former manager of Knapp Bros. banks at Deposit and Callicoon and president of the Outing Publishing Company, all of which are in the hands of receivers, was arrested to-day at Deposit on charges of accepting deposits in the bank knowing it to be insolvent. The complaint was preferred by Mrs. William Crowley at the instigation of District Attorney Frederick J. Meagher of Broome county. Knapp waived examination and was held for the Grand Jury. He furnished $2,000 bail, his aunt, Miss Josie P. Knapp of Deposit, qualifying on the bond.

The firm of Knapp Bros., composed of Charles P. Knapp of this city, Charles P. Knapp and Morris J. Knapp of Deposit, and Florence Knapp Yukum of East Orange, N. J., was adjudged bankrupt on April 12, when receivers were appointed both for Knapp Bros. and Outing Publishing Company. The schedules in bankruptcy show that Knapp Bros. held $750,000 in notes, $234,000 in first mortgage bonds and $40,000 in debenture bonds of the Outing company. The deposits in the banks amounted to $1,300,555. This was paid in chiefly by farmers in Delaware and Broome counties. These deposits will not get more than 10 per cent back of the heavy losses incurred by Outing Publishing Company in connection with its magazines Outing, Grey Goose and the Bohemian.

Because of the failure of Knapp Bros., the State Department on April 9 took charge of the Binghamton Trust Company, of which C. J. Knapp was president. Charles P. Knapp conducted Knapp's Band, which gave concerts at the Majestic Theatre in New York. Since the failure he had secured a position as clerk at the new Monmouth Hotel, Spring Lake Beach, New Jersey.

RATTIER YIELDS TO RATS.

Snake Killed by Two Rodents Intended for His Breakfast.

DALTON, Ga., June 5.—Two big gray rats fought a battle with a rattlesnake this morning and the rats won. The snake was brought into the city yesterday and was placed in a cage with two rats for a window display. Early this morning two big rats were obtained as food for the snake.

When the rats were placed in the cage with the snake it made no effort to molest them. A crowd gathered to witness the snake and the rats, but it was over an hour before the rattier moved to attack.

The rats showed fight from the start. While the snake was after one the other would be plunging its head into the snake's body. After an hour the snake mumbled. One rat was nearly dead, while the other apparently was unharmed.

As tribute to its valor, the unhurt rat was released. The rattier measured seven feet in length.

LETTER WRITER PESTERS HER

THREATS TO BLOW UP HER HOME MAKE MRS. WHITE MOVE.

Doctors Sent For to Attend Her, Undertakers Called to Bury Her, Neighbors Warned Against Her—Another Woman Is Doing It—Police Look for Her.

Mrs. Mary L. White, a widow with two small children, who lives at present at 1190 Boston road, has been pestered since February last by a series of anonymous letters sent to her and to various neighbors by some woman. Mrs. White says she has no idea who the woman is.

In February Mrs. White rented one of a row of six two-story frame houses in Tinton avenue—No. 1236—and moved in with her children. She had been there just a month when she received a letter telling her that if she did not move out immediately the house would be blown up with dynamite. The letter was printed with a pencil. The writer said that she was writing it because of something that had happened to her husband in Mr. White's barber shop when he was alive.

The first letter to Mrs. White was followed by a flood of others to the neighbors in the row counselling them for their own safety to have Mrs. White put out at once. Tradesmen in the neighborhood were also warned that they must not sell any goods of any description to Mrs. White on peril of being blown up. Joseph Earle, who lives at 1238 Tinton avenue and is a clerk in the Supreme Court, received several of these letters. The wives of some of the neighbors were frightened and finally a number of them went to Edward G. Williams of 1264 Boston road, who owns the row of houses, and asked him to get Mrs. White out. Mrs. White, who heard of this move of her own accord and took an apartment in a house at 1190 Boston road, which is owned by Joseph White of Pelham Heights.

It was on April 1 that Mrs. White moved in, and again just a month later the letters began to arrive. The writer this time said that she was an anarchist and had the backing of the anarchist fraternity in her purpose to blow up the apartment house.

Dr. Congressman Joseph J. Hart and Mr. William S. O'Brien live in the same apartment house and each got a letter telling him that he must get the owner to put Mrs. White out at once or the house would be blown up. The tenants went to Mr. White, the owner, but so far he has refused to order Mrs. White out.

About ten days ago two undertakers arrived at the apartment house within a few minutes of each other. They went to ex-Congressman Hart's door and rang the bell.

"We have come for the body of Mrs. White," they told the person who answered the door.

It was known that Mrs. White was not dead, and the undertakers were asked who had sent them. Both exhibited the pencilled letters directing them to go to 1190 Boston road for the body of Mrs. White.

A few days ago three doctors arrived at different hours in a great hurry. They had received telephone messages from some woman that Mrs. White was dying and asking them to hurry to her apartment.

Mrs. White then appealed to the police, and detectives from the Bronx branch of the Detective Bureau and plain clothes men from the Manhattan precinct have been on guard at the house. There are police stationed in the cellar and in the hallways, according to the Bronx detective bureau, in case any attempt to carry out the threats contained in the letters is made.

The various letters have been dropped in street mail boxes in widely separated parts of the Bronx.

FOG HELD CEDRIC.

Or she Would Have Ducked Last Night—Lady Aberdeen on Board.

The White Star liner Cedric, from Liverpool and Queenstown, was expected to dock last evening, having been reported off Fire Island in ample time to reach her pier before 10 o'clock, but a heavy fog set in just after she was sighted by the Fire Island observer and she was not heard from thereafter until 8:30 o'clock, when Sandy Hook in a moment of comparative clearness saw her anchored outside the bar. Many who had gathered at the White Star pier hoping to greet friends went home disappointed.

Among the Cedric's passengers is the Countess of Aberdeen, who is president of the Women's National Health Association of Ireland and head of the Irish Industries Association. She will lecture here for the benefit of the anti-tuberculosis campaign in Ireland. Her first talk will be at Plymouth Church in Brooklyn, at 7 o'clock this evening. About an hour and a half later she will lecture at the Catholic Club on the ravages of tuberculosis in Ireland.

HEAVY DAMAGES FOR TEACHER.

Miss Mahoney Awarded $23,500 for Injuries in Woodlawn Wreck.

WHITE PLAINS, June 5.—Another large verdict against the New York Central Railroad Company for injuries suffered in the Brewster Express wreck on the Woodlawn curve has been affirmed by the Appellate Division. It is believed the wreck will cost the company at least $150,000 before all the judgments are settled.

The latest verdict to be affirmed is that of $23,500, awarded to Miss Margaret M. Mahoney, a school teacher, of Purdy's. She lost her right leg after lying in the snow for an hour alongside the tracks before being taken to a hospital. She sued for $100,000 for the loss of the leg and for serious internal injuries.

The verdict of $17,500 which was given to Miss Maude Case of White Plains was also affirmed by the higher court.

MARINE STRIKE BROKEN.

Men Return to Work at Havre—Mishap Details La Savole.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN.

HAVRE, June 5.—The strike here of the enlisted men of the mercantile marine has resulted in a fiasco. The firemen who abandoned the General Transatlantique line steamer La Savole resumed work yesterday.

Notwithstanding this, the vessel did not sail for New York, an accident to her propeller shaft necessitating her going into dry dock for repairs.

She will sail Monday.

NO STRANGER TO RENO.

Margaret Illington Has Lived There Most of the Time Since October.

RENO, Nev., June 5.—A lawyer of the firm of Cheney, Massey & Price admitted to-day that Margaret Illington Frohman is in Reno and has been here with her mother since last October, with the exception of a few weeks in the East and a few weeks in a sanitarium in San Francisco.

"She intends to reside here for some time so far as I know and may in the future bring suit for a divorce from Daniel Frohman. But so far we have taken no steps toward preparing for such a suit," the lawyer said. "The father of Mrs. Frohman will be here in a short time and will take up his residence with her and her mother."

Miss Illington returned to Reno from a brief visit to San Francisco last Wednesday night. Her attorneys say that the delay in filing divorce papers, she having already established the required residence in Nevada, is due to the possibility that the action may be withheld as a result of a compromise with her husband.

DROPPED TICKET IN P. O. BOX.

With $60 in Cash—Mallory Line Guesses It and Let Her Sail.

Mrs. J. B. Parker of Tyler, Tex., who has been visiting friends in this city, bought on Wednesday from H. G. Wenzel, passenger agent of the Mallory Line at 280 Broadway, a ticket entitling her to passage to Galveston by the steamship Denver, which sailed at noon yesterday.

Mrs. Parker appeared at the dock of the liner at 11:30 much agitated because she could not find her ticket, her baggage checks and $60 in currency which she declared she had put together in one envelope. Arthur Fye, general traffic manager of the line, summoned Mr. Wenzel and on the strength of his declaration that he had sold a ticket to Mrs. Parker she was permitted to board the ship. Mr. Wenzel cross-examined her first and found that she had mailed several letters yesterday morning, putting them in a box at Sixty-third street and Sixth avenue. He suspected that she had dropped the envelope containing the ticket, baggage checks and money in the box also. After the Denver had sailed Mr. Wenzel went to Station G at Fifty-first street and Broadway, and learned that the envelope had been dropped in the box. Mrs. Parker was notified by wireless that the money and baggage checks would be sent to her by mail.
